LESSONS OF THE WAR

Gen. Sternberg Delivers Address on Its Sanitary Features.

DEATH RATE UNUSUALLY LOW

Particularly in Case of Men Wounded in Battle.

TYPHOID FEVER SCOURGE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 8.—Today's session of the American Medical Association was the largest in attendance of the convention. The interest centered largely in the presence of Surgeon General Sternberg of the United States Army.

General Sternberg was accorded the closest attention, and he was warmly applauded. The subject of his address was: "Sanitary Lessons of the War." He said:

As compared with the civil war and other great wars during the present century the mortality from wounds and disease among our troops during the war with Spain has been low. Our wounded have, to a large extent, had the advantage of prompt treatment with antiseptic dressings, and a very considerable proportion of those who were not killed outright have recovered without any mauling operation or septic complications. The mortality from disease has also been comparatively low, but unfortunately during the first months of the war that scourge of new levies of troops, typhoid fever, prevailed in many of our camps and claimed numerous victims. It is well known to sanitarians and military surgeons that as a general rule more soldiers die of disease than are killed by the bullets of the enemy, and our recent war has not been an exception in this regard. The total number of deaths reported in our armed army, including regulars and volunteers, from May 1, 1898, to April 30, 1899, is 4,646. Of these 5,438 died of disease and 908 were killed in battle or died of wounds, injuries or accidents. During the civil war the number of deaths from disease was 186,216. The number who were killed in battle or died of wounds was 363,963, or about one-half of the deaths from disease. The total deaths from disease in the Union armies from the commencement of the war to the close of September 1862, were 186,216, and in the Confederate armies during the same period, 131,258.

Table of Death Rate.

The following table gives the monthly death rates from disease in our armies from May 1, 1898, to April 30, 1899, and for comparison, the rates for the same period during the first twelve months of the civil war:

Months.	Mean Strength.	Number of Deaths.	Ratio per 1,000 of M. S.	Ratio per 1,000 of M. S.	Number of Deaths.	Mean Strength.
1861-1862.
May.	16,161	18	1.11	26	42	183,793
June.	16,161	18	1.11	26	49	202,556
July.	71,125	106	1.40	1.72	451	262,613
August.	112,550	242	2.15	5.49	543	262,613
September.	105,129	242	2.29	5.89	1,541	261,824
October.	226,884	725	3.20	3.17	869	255,060
November.	301,848	1,471	4.87	1.51	965	262,613
December.	343,174	1,471	4.29	.84	201	240,000
January.	302,796	1,598	5.28	.85	183	262,613
February.	343,174	1,598	4.65	.99	123	136,000
March.	410,416	1,881	4.58	25.73	5,438	211,350
April.	229,482	10,522	46.06

In addition to this, 24,181 deaths are recorded as from unknown causes, and probably most of these deaths were from disease.

In comparing the death rates from disease during the year of the Spanish-American war, May 1, 1898, to April 30, 1899, and the first year of the civil war, May 1, 1861, to April 30, 1862, the difference in the death rates should be noted. In the first place that the mean strength in May, 1861, was only 16,161 as compared with 161,726 men in service in May, 1898. The smaller the number of troops progressed more slowly in 1861 than during the recent war, so that it was not until September and October, 1861, that the mean strength assumed proportions equal to the average annual strength during the past year. In 1862, however, the average annual strength during the year of the Spanish war, 1898, was 161,726, and in 1862, the average annual strength during the year of the Spanish war, 1898, was 161,726, and in 1862, the average annual strength during the year of the Spanish war, 1898, was 161,726.

Typical Cases Compared.

The same gradual rise is seen in the mortality statistics of typhoid fever during the civil war. The highest death rate, 2.81, was not reached until May, 1862, the third month of the aggregation of the troops, when 1,062 died of this disease, and the fall of the rates was as gradual as the rise. On the other hand, the rise in 1898 was sudden, the maximum rate, 3.57, being reached in September, when the mean strength of the army was 1,062,000. The months of October and November were as notable as the rise. This sudden suppression of the disease, which is attributed to the sanitary measures adopted by the troops to attack from this fever, as they only suffered at the rate of 12.37 per thousand of strength, while the average annual strength of the army was 1,062,000, and the average annual strength of the army was 1,062,000, and the average annual strength of the army was 1,062,000.

Four Boxes Did It.

REMARKABLE SUCCESS OF A NEW PILE CURE.

People who have suffered for months or years from the pain and inconvenience of that common disorder, piles, will look with skepticism upon the claims of the makers of the new discovery for the cure of all forms of piles, known as the Pyramid Pile Cure; nevertheless the extraordinary cure performed by this remedy are such as to warrant the investigation of any sufferer. As a case in point the following letter speaks for itself:

Mr. Henry Thomas of Substation No. 3, Hosack Ave., Columbus, Ohio, writes as follows:

"Gentlemen: I want you to use my name if it will be of any use to you. I was so bad with the piles that I lost work on that account. Nothing did me any good. I read in the Columbus Dispatch of the Pyramid Pile Cure and I went to a drug store and asked for it. The druggist told me that he had something else that he thought was better, but I told him that I wanted to try the Pyramid Pile Cure. I had suffered for years with the worst form of protruding piles."

"The first box helped me so much that I tried another, and then to complete the cure used two more boxes, making four in all. I am now completely cured. I have not a trace of piles and I had suffered for years with the worst form of protruding piles."

"I suffered death from piles, but I found the Pyramid Pile Cure. I read in the Columbus Dispatch of the Pyramid Pile Cure and I went to a drug store and asked for it. The druggist told me that he had something else that he thought was better, but I told him that I wanted to try the Pyramid Pile Cure. I had suffered for years with the worst form of protruding piles."

Physicians recommend the Pyramid Pile Cure because it contains no opium, cocaine or mineral poison of any kind, and because it is so safe and pleasant to use, being painless and applied at night. The patient is cured in a surprisingly short time with no inconvenience whatever.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents per package, and if there is any constipation it is well to use the Pyramid Pile Cure at the same time with the Pile Cure, as constipation is very often the cause of piles and the pills effectively remove the constipation. Price of pills is 25 cents per package.

Write to Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for little book on cause and cure of piles; sent by mail free.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES.

Harold P. Oliver Alleges Breach of Contract.

Harold Purcell Oliver of Philadelphia, today brought suit against Edward Noble Richards of this city for $64,000 damages, alleging breach of contract. The suit was filed by Andrew G. Bradley, attorney for the plaintiff.

In his declaration Oliver claims that he entered into an agreement with the defendant when the latter was about to engage in the manufacture of wall paper under the style of Capital Wall Paper Mills. The defendant was to put up the money, while the plaintiff contributed his skill and knowledge of machinery. He was to receive $10 a week and finally acquire an interest in the enterprise.

This contract, it is alleged, Richards failed to carry out, and in violation discharged the plaintiff from his employment.

Proceedings of National Medical Association.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 8.—A new national medical association, to be known as the American Proctological Society, has been organized here. The society is formed for the study of the diseases of the lower intestines, and its membership is composed of prominent specialists of the leading cities in the United States. The membership will be limited. The officers were elected: President, Dr. Joseph M. Matthews, Louisville, Ky.; the retiring president of the American Medical Association; vice president, Dr. James P. Tuttle, New York city; secretary-treasurer, Dr. Wm. M. Beach, Pittsburg; board of counselors: Dr. Samuel T. Earle, Baltimore, Md.; Dr. A. Bennett Cooke, Nashville, Tenn., and J. B. Pennington, Chicago.

An x-ray exhibition of the method of examining the large intestines was given by Dr. Pennington of Chicago. The exhibition was an entirely new feature never before demonstrated, the principal feature of which was the use of a solution of bismuth nitrate, which, when introduced into the large intestine, makes the organs plainly visible and show their outlines.

The work was made possible by the recently invented mica plate static machine. The next annual meeting of the society will be held at Washington, D. C., in May, 1900.

THE SPANISH LEGATION.

Minister Will Occupy Residence Vacated by His Predecessor.

Since the house was given up by the last Spanish minister it has remained empty. Some improvements and alterations are to be made by the owner, Mrs. Noble, which will improve the appearance of the building. The vines which have run over the house are to be removed, and a new garden is to be laid out, the severity of the cold of last winter.

RECIPROCITY WITH FRANCE.

Steps Taken to Actively Renew the Negotiations.

The French government has taken steps to actively renew negotiations for a reciprocity treaty with the United States, and to that end has appointed M. Chapenier as special delegate to assist Ambassador Cambon in conducting the negotiations. M. Chapenier will arrive at New York from Paris tomorrow, and come on to Washington to take up the work. Ambassador Cambon was at the State Department today arranging with Mr. Kasson, the reciprocity commissioner, to forward the arrangements.

The negotiations with France were begun some time ago and then came to a complete halt. The disposition of the French authorities is very favorable toward securing a treaty, and as a basis for this they are ready to concede the minimum tariff list, which is about 20 per cent below the maximum list, now levied on American goods.

The United States are those under section 4 of the Dingley tariff law. A partial reciprocity arrangement was made with France some months ago, but the present active movement is toward securing a much more extensive treaty.
